

CATHOLIC

FEBRUARY 16, 2014
THE 6TH WEEK IN ORDINARY TIME
VOLUME 63:19
WWW.CTONLINE.ORG

DIOCESE OF COLUMBUS

A journal of Catholic life in Ohio

TRAUMA AID PROGRAM HELPS MOUNT CARMEL FULFILL MISSION

2 Catholic Times February 16, 2014

The Editor's Notebook

Body and Soul

By David Garick, Editor

"A joyful heart is good medicine, but a broken spirit dries up the bones."

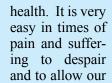

Proverbs 17:22

Health care is a major topic of discussion these days. We all want to have good health. We want to feel good and be free of illness. And we certainly want to overcome the injuries that may befall us. Thankfully, medical science has provided us with knowledgeable and well trained doctors, nurses, and related medical professionals and a host of modern drugs, tools, and therapies to deal with our physical ailments.

But we are much more than our physical bodies. Our physical health is intrinsically connected to our spiritual health. Now I'm not saying that living a good spiritual life will protect you from illness and injury. But we can do quite a bit by respecting our bodies and caring for them as a precious gift from God, as St. Paul tells the Corinthians: "Do vou not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit who is in you, whom you have from God, and that you are not your own? For you have been bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body." So if one of your New Year's resolutions was to take better care of yourself, how are you doing with that? Getting into better shape is not just a matter of getting back into a slimmer pair of jeans, but involves linking our physical bodies with our spiritual need to live a life that is directed to God.

When illness and injury strike, we especially need our spiritual strength to help nurture and restore our physical spirits to be dragged down by the ordeal we are going through. It is during these times when our spiritual health is most important. Even the greatest miracle drugs and modern medical tools cannot fully restore us to health if we lack the spiritual will to overcome our ailments and to direct our bodies to respond to those treatments and to look to the future with a sense of peace, confidence, and hope.

Sometimes that's easier said than done. That's why health care has been so important to the church. Our priests, deacons, and religious, as well as our doctors, nurses, and counselors have always played a significant role in helping people find the source of their spiritual strength at the same time that they help us with our physical needs. You can read more about some examples of how this is happening here in the Diocese of Columbus Affliction comes to all of us. We deal with it best when we remember that the Good Shepherd is always there to protect and guide us.

in this edition of Catholic Times.

"Have no anxiety at all, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, make your requests known to God. Then the peace of God that surpasses all understanding will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus."

Philippians 4:6

Catholic Youth Rally set for March 8-9 end of music, inspiration, making new friends, and celebration of their Catholic faith with Bishop Frederick Campbell at the 2014 Diocesan Youth Rally on Saturday and Sunday, March 8 and 9, at Westerville St. Paul Church, 313 N. State St.

The rally will feature Jesse Manibusan, an inspirational speaker and Christian music artist who was master of ceremonies at the 2013 National Catholic Youth Conference in Indianapolis.

The event also will include workshops on topics including human dignity, teamwork, maintaining healthy relationships, the lives of the saints, and deepening prayer www.youthministry.colsdioc.org.

Catholic teens in the Diocese of life, as well as small-group dis-Columbus are invited for a week- cussion with Bishop Campbell. In addition, there will be a workshop for adult leaders on how to make all teens feel welcome in the parish

> Parents are invited to the closing Mass on Sunday at 2:15 p.m. To register, contact your parish youth minister, religious education director, Catholic school teacher or pastor. Advance registration is reguired. Interested high school students should register through their parish youth ministry leader.

> The cost is $65 for both days and includes lunches, dinner on Saturday, and a T-shirt.

> Registration forms and information are available on the web at

Front Page photo:

Since 1997, Mount Carmel Medical Center has offered a program designed to help people recover from the emotional pain often

Photo courtesy Mount

Copyright © 2014. All rights reserved. Catholic Times is the official newspaper of the Catholic Diocese of Columbus, Ohio. It is published weekly 45 times per year with exception of every other week in June, July and August and the week following Christmas. Subscription rate: $25 per year, or call and make arrangements with your parish. David Garick ~ Editor (dgarick@colsdioc.org) Tim Puet ~ Reporter (tpuet@colsdioc.org) Alexandra Keves ~ Graphic Design Manager (akeves@colsdioc.org) Jodie Sfreddo ~ Bookkeeper/Circulation Coordinator (isfreddo@colsdioc.org)

Bishop Frederick F. Campbell, D.D., PhD. ~ President & Publisher

Mailing Address: 197 E. Gay St., Columbus OH 43215 Editorial/Advertising: (614) 224-5195 FAX (614) 241-2518 Circulation/Business: (614) 224-6530 FAX (614) 241-2518

Postmaster: Send address changes to Catholic Times, 197 E. Gay St., Columbus, Ohio 43215. Please allow two to four weeks for change of address.

Catholic Times 3 February 16, 2014

CATHOLIC MAN OF THE YEAR 2014

BY TIM PUET

Reporter, Catholic Times

Mike Stickle said it wasn't easy for him to receive the 2014 diocesan Catholic Man of the Year award.

"You guvs don't know how much this really hurts," he said, echoing comments by those who nominated him for the award and said his humility would make him reluctant to accept the honor.

"I'm just a simple man trying to do simple things," he said after being given the award by Bishop Frederick Campbell at the Catholic Men's Luncheon Club meeting at Columbus St. Patrick Church on Friday. Feb. 7. "God has blessed me in so many ways, and my greatest blessing is his love and his mercy that he has shown in my life to me."

He said another great blessing was to have Sister Mary Giles, OP, as his firstgrade teacher at Newark St. Francis de Sales School. "She taught her class a very simple lesson, and that lesson is Father Jonathan Wilson of Newark that God is love, that everyone is made in God's image and likeness, and that God gives everyone special gifts that Brian Palmer.

Now available!

2013-2014

DIOCESANI DIRECTORY

GENERATIONS RELIGIOUS GIFTS & CHURCH SUPPLY

1095 Dublin Road • Columbus, OH 43215

614.451.7155 • 800.743.7155 • Fax: 614.340.1010

The 2013-2014 DIOCESE OF COLUMBUS DIRECTORY is now available for purchase. The directory store price is $8.50. With tax and shipping the cost is $12.50 for one book and $9.25 for each additional book. Please send a check made out to Generations with your order, or use Visa, Mastercard,

Please send copies of the 2012-2013 Diocesan Directory

Credit Card # EXP

Discover, or purchase on-line at www.generationsreligiousgifts.com.

City, State, Zip

Phone number ()

we are called to share with each other.' Stickle said

He said he was accepting the award on behalf of all the men of the diocese, then thanked his wife. Sharon, for 33 vears of unconditional married love. He also expressed gratitude to many others. including his children, Jack, Sarah, and Kate; his first grandson, Ellis Palmer; his father- and mother-in-law, for letting him have their daughter in marriage: the Children of Mary religious community, for their hours of prayer and Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament for the clergy of the diocese; and the people who wrote letters of support for his nomination.

He closed his remarks by noting the recent death of a family member due to substance abuse and asking for prayers for the families of all those affected in a similar way.

Speaking on his behalf before the award presentation were his pastor, Blessed Sacrament Church, longtime friend Kevin Pugh, and his son-in-law.

Father Jonathan Wilson, pastor at Newark Blessed Sacrament, is at right. CT photo by Tim Puet

"Our Lord has taught us to pray, fast, and give alms in secret," said Father Wilson. "Receiving this award is really a sacrifice for you, Mike, because you haven't done any of these things for praise and recognition."

He said Stickle has provided many examples of sharing the light he received at baptism, some of which have involved providing light in its literal sense by changing bulbs and Christmas decorations and installing a security light in the parish. He also mentioned Stickle's involvement in chaperoning trips to the March for Life in Washington and offering hospitality to visiting priests, praised the witness given by him and Sharon in their marriage and family life, and said Stickle was "the last guy standing at the (parish) festival tearing things down at 1 or 2 in the morning.'

Pugh said that although he knew Stickle wouldn't welcome the attention the award would bring, he was deserving of it because, especially in the three years that Pugh has been a Blessed Sacrament parishioner, "everywhere I turned, I saw Mike quietly getting things done."

He noted that when he was having difficulty getting the "That Man Is You!" men's faith-sharing program started in the parish, he asked Stickle for help. The honoree responded by greeting men at church with a handshake that wouldn't let go until the men said they would consider taking part in the program. Pugh said.

He said Stickle's efforts played a major role in the program having more than 40 participants last fall and having more than 50 men sign up for a followup this spring.

Palmer said he has considered his father-in-law to be a saint since shortly after he began dating Stickle's daughter, Sarah, now his wife, seven years ago. Palmer, a Methodist, said Stickle has made him a better practitioner of his own faith tradition "because he has helped me and many others become closer to what really matters in life."

"I can almost guarantee that Mike would like to be here today in support for someone else other than himself," Palmer said, adding that. "he would not have allowed his name to be submitted" if he had known of it in advance.

He said his father-in-law was "the only volunteer I know that would provide, deliver, and guide a donkey for our local ecumenical Palm Sunday procession" that travels to all the churches in downtown Newark. He described Stickle as "a tall man who takes long strides through life, putting his faith into practice" and who has taken a quote by Blessed Mother Teresa about the importance not just of good deeds, but of putting love into those deeds, and taken it to the next level.

In presenting the award, Bishop Campbell said the descriptions he heard of Stickle reminded him of St. Joseph, who never is quoted in the Bible, and of whose example it has been said, "He was quiet, and he did it."

Stickle, 59, is a lifelong Catholic who supports his parish in many ways, in-

See CATHOLIC MAN, Page 14

4 Catholic Times February 16, 2014 February 16, 2014 Catholic Times 5

PRACTICAL STEWARDSHIP By Rick Jeric

Warmer

Did you spread some real warmth around last week? The cold and ice just refuse to go away. Even after we survived the deep freeze of January and the named storms of early February, the weather continues to help us forget about the theory of global warming. The seasons come and go, and somehow we learn to deal with the cold and snow emergencies. Cold gives way to warmth, and snow and ice eventually melt. Mother Nature puts us through these annual cycles, and we assimilate without too much effort. Our lives as good and faithful stewards of the Gospel of Jesus Christ can reflect similar cycles. We sin, repent, seek and receive forgiveness, and then do it all over again. Of course, we can conquer and get beyond certain sins and weaknesses. But as weak humans, we tend to go in cycles and fall into the same traps over and over again. We succumb to temptation. Our challenge remains to melt the cold and ice in our lives. As each "winter" comes back around, our hope is that each one is more mild than the past. Let us continue to warm others with our smile, faith, and example.

Last week, I attempted to provide warmth with six suggested ways to do good things for ourselves and others. This week, I have more to share. Certainly, one week is not enough time to share our warmth. We must get warmer and continue to do the good things that we already do, and never tire of adding more service to our lives each day. Sometimes a list of suggestions can be helpful. Choose one or two and commit to them for one week. Come back to them from time to time as the Spirit moves you. If you are already doing some of these, give yourself a gold star, and see if you can add one or two of the others.

Try getting warmer spiritually by praying the rosary by yourself. Pray it each day for one week in quiet solitude. Pray and listen. Try one hour of spiritual reading. You can certainly use the Bible. Begin with Genesis in the Old Testament. Read as much as you can each day, and spend some quiet time in reflection. See how many days it takes you to read the entire Old Testament. Then move on to the New Testament. This is a great exercise for the next few months. If you prefer something else, let me suggest some reading on stewardship. Go to the website for the International Catholic Stewardship Council at www.catholicstewardship.org and search all the great resources available. For your reflection and meditation time, try doing some physical exercise at the same time. Get your body warmer while your mind and spirit are doing the same. At work, spend a coffee break with a co-worker. Stop and spend some time with someone you may not know well. Make the love of Jesus Christ warmer by your presence. If there is someone new on board, start with them.

Our practical challenge this week is to actually do some of these suggestions. And to help keep us focused, here are two more things we can do very easily. Pick a weekday and go to daily Mass. Enjoy and participate in the celebration. Receive the Eucharist for strength and grace. At home, work, or in the car, give our Catholic radio station a try. St. Gabriel Radio has some good material, especially our local programs. They are found at 820 AM, and there is always something to think about and reflect upon. Stay warmer!

Jeric is director of development and planning for the Columbus Diocese.

Columbus Theology on Tap

Vaquero restaurant, 3230 Olentangy Sabo, an instructor from Ohio Dominican University, will talk about the theology of women. changing view and role of women in church history.

Blessed Mother and Mary Magdalene community.

This month's meeting of Colum- (and the misappropriation of Mary bus Theology on Tap will be from 7 Magdalene as a prostitute) and other to 9 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13 at the El women saints. She also will talk about Vatican II and how it changed the role River Road, Columbus. Speaker Deb of women in the laity, and about Pope Francis' recent call for a new, deeper

Theology on Tap is an invitation for young adults to learn more about their Her topics will include the roles of the faith and to share in their Catholic

"Landings" at St. Thomas More Newman Center

Landings, a ministry of the Paulist Catholics, some of whom are "returnand inactive Catholics. The next seshealing, and a place to ask questions. sion will begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 18 at the center, 64 W. Lane Ave.

In this program, a group of active buckeyecatholic.com.

Fathers and the reconciliation team at ees" themselves, join with participants the Columbus St. Thomas More New- to share and explore their faith together. man Center, is an eight-week program Landings offers a safe place to be lisgeared toward welcoming returning tened to, a place for understanding and

> For more information, contact Ed Orazen at (614) 313-7801 or landings@

"Come and See" Retreat with Dominican Sisters

The Dominican Sisters of Peace invite in prayer, Dominican community life, from 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 14 to noon may be available. Sunday, Feb. 16, at their motherhouse, 2320 Airport Drive, Columbus.

single Catholic women aged 18 to 45 and the Eucharist as they explore their to a "come and see" vocations retreat vocation call. Transportation assistance

To register or for more information, contact Sister Pat Dual, OP, at (614) Participants will get a chance to share 216-7688 or email pdual@oppeace.org.

Our Family Serving Yours...

Our family of Funeral Directors has expanded to include Bob Ryan's son, Kevin. Kevin's great-great-grandfather Patrick Egan established the company in 1859. Our commitment to Central Ohio families has never changed.

EGAN RYAN

Personal, dignified, quality services at a reasonable cost

NEW NORTHWEST 4661 Kenny Rd. 614.451.5900

Central 403 E. Broad St. 614.221.6665

EAST 4019 E. LIVINGSTON AVE 614.235.8000

ANNUAL BOSCO BASH RALLY

Bosco Bash participants pose during a break

A group enjoying warmup songs.

throughout the diocese attended the annual Bosco Bash rally on Saturday, Feb. 1 at Westerville St. Paul Church and School. The event was organized by the diocesan Office of Youth and Young Adult Ministry, in collaboration with several parish youth ministers and the Diocesan Youth Council. It coincides with the feast of St. John Bosco, the patron saint of youth. This year's theme was "Glory Revealed." Keynote presenter Mike Patin challenged the young people to find God's work revealed in their everyday lives and to embrace it. He talked about building relationships based on respect and a common core of Catholic beliefs and shared dignity, in a high-energy presentation that kept participants laughing and moving. The Station 14 band provided lively, spiritually moving music. The event closed with a Mass celebrated by Father Charles Klinger, pastor of St. Paul Church.

Diocese of Columbus Child Protection Plan

It is the goal of the Diocese of Columbus to make the Church a place of safety: a place of prayer, ministry and comfort. Evervone who enters our churches, schools, or facilities must be confident in this. Not one child or young person should suffer from abuse while at Church. In order to assure the safety of our youth, the Diocese of Columbus has enacted a complete program of protection. As part of this program, the Diocese of Columbus will provide appropriate, just, and pastoral care for anyone who has suffered the crime of sexual abuse of a minor at the hands of diocesan clergy or church employees or volunteers. The Diocese of Columbus will report any and all allegations of abuse reported to it to the authorities and will cooperate fully with those authorities.

Help is available: The Diocese of Columbus wants to hear from anyone who has suffered. If you wish to report an allegation of abuse or need pastoral and/or clinical care in order to begin or continue the process of healing from sexual abuse as a child at the hands of a member of the clergy or a church employee or volunteer, simply call the diocesan Victims' Assistance Coordinator. You can find contact information at the bottom of this notice. If you wish to receive a copy of the diocesan complaint form or any of the diocesan policies and procedures, simply call the number below or visit the diocesan web site at www.colsdioc.org

To contact the diocesan Victim's Assistance Coordinator, call: The Rev. Msgr. Stephan J. Moloney 614.224.2251 • helpisavailable@colsdioc.org

CATHOLIC CEMETERIES

Spring Clean-up!

CEMETERY field workers will be removing winter-time and artificial decorations from graves and mausoleums at all Catholic cemeteries beginning March 3, 2014.

WE request that families wishing to retain any personal keepsakes, to please remove them by March 3.

DUE to the number of decorations involved, the cemetery staff can not be responsible for collecting or storing personal items. Thank you for your cooperation.

ST. JOSEPH 614-491-2751

RESURRECTION 614-888-1805

MT. CALVARY 614-491-2751

HOLY CROSS 740-927-4442

6 Catholic Times February 16, 2014

On watching movies with certain ratings; toys in church

Such a rating is not given lightly, so I would agree with you that rarely would seeing a film

ceive it and react.

. When are priests going to tell parents to leave the chil-

little soldiers conductlieve that children could

QUESTION & ANSWER by: FATHER KENNETH DOYLE Catholic News Service

What is a Catho-tuitous sexuality or are obligation laden, for no artistically regarding the movie valid reason, with nonratings issued by the stop vulgarity," accord-Catholic News Service? ing to the ratings page of Are they binding? For Catholic News Service. example, is it a sin to Films that directly consee films rated "O--Mor- tradict church teaching ally Offensive"? Not on such matters as suithat any good Catholic cide, adultery, euthanawould want to see most sia, abortion, or violent of these films, but on oc- revenge also get this casion there is an "O" rating, "no matter how film where the rating lauded some of them seems unwarranted. Or may be by the secular what if a parent allows a press." teen to see a movie rated "A-III--For Adults"? (Columbus)

. The ratings are rated "O" be justified. Ameant as guidelines. They do not bind in conscience. At the same time, they offer a valuable resource, particularly for parents in choosing what is appropriate for their children. The ratings and reviews evaluate a film from a spiritual, moral, and artistic point of view against the background of the church's teachings and of Judeo-Christian values. So I don't dren's toys at home? believe that a faithful I see tractors and cars Catholic should take roaming across pews, them lightly.

After you have read a ing wars, and even monreview, I would recom- ster figures. We are just mend deciding whether a couple of ticks away to attend based on what from every child's beyou know of yourself, ing there with iPads and avoiding what might be movies. We used to betroublesome morally.

Films are classified as learn self-control by sit-"O" or "morally offenting quietly at Mass and sive" when they "feature not needing to be enter- 40 Hopewell St., Albany, excessive violence, gratained. (La Crosse, Wis.) N.Y. 12208.

. Topics like this Aare always chancy, because people have a range of opinions, often strongly held. But I'll run the risk and give you my take.

It depends a lot on age. By the time a kid is 4, would hope that he or she were starting to pay some attention in church, or at least sitting quietly. But when the child is 2, let's say, I have no problem with bringing toys -- depending on the toys. My least favorite are trucks and Super Balls. We have a sloped church, and more than once I've been "attacked" at the altar by a rumbling 18-wheeler tov truck or a high-bouncing spheroid.

Though not a toy, Cheerios are on my As for whether to al-"non-preferred" list. (I'd low your teenager to see rather not spend Sunday a film rated as accept- afternoons picking cereable only for adults, if it alout of seat cushions.) were my child, I would Coloring books would want to first see the film be fine, except that they to make a safe and ininvolve crayons, which leave reminders of their formed judgment as to how he or she might represence.

> Bringing stuffed animals is fine, and books with thick pages are acceptable (although even they can become noisemakers, should the toddler decide to throw

Having said all that, I'm just delighted to see little children in church, and I admire and applaud parents with the patience to bring them.

Questions may be sent to Father Kenneth Doyle at askfatherdoyle@gmail.com and

Sacred Heart students score at science fair

Seven Coshocton Sacred Heart School students earned a superior score on projects at the school science fair, making them eligible for the Coshocton County science fair this month. They are (from left): Connor Stevens-Woolery, Anna Richcreek, Jonathan Lyons, MaryAnn Lozowski, Grace Gottwalt, Lacey Richcreek, and Sydney Stewart. Gottwalt and Lacey Richcreek are sixth-graders. The others are in fifth grade. Photo courtesy Sacred Heart School

St. Brendan Dinner and Auction Event

Plans are under way for Hilliard St. pay for new playground equipment, Brendan School's 11th annual din- new mulch, computers, carpet, winner and auction, "Celebrating Mardi dows, bathroom updates, and new Gras," which will take place Saturdoors, along with significant contriday, March 1 at the school, 4475 Dub-butions to the school's tuition assislin Road.

The evening for adults will include live and silent auctions, raffles, hors d'oeuvres, drinks, dinner, live music, and dancing.

Sponsored by the Home and School Association, the auction raises money to pay for many things that the school otherwise would have to do without. Past proceeds have been used to help tance fund.

For more information, visit the auction webpage by going to the school website at http://www.stbrendans.net/ pages/StBrendan Church School/ SCHOOL, or contact one of the auction chairs, Stacy Meloun at (614) 917-7151 or stacymeloun@yahoo. com, or Kathy Torbert at (614) 519-1069 or kathy.torbert@gmail.com.

Medicare Presentation at Our Lady of Perpetual Help

by Seniority Benefit Group.

The program will focus on what seniors need to know about Medicare 875-3322. enrollment when planning retirement in the coming year.

Grove City Our Lady of Perpetual basics about Medicare and their op-Help Church will continue its "Faith, tions beyond Medicare Parts A and Family, Future" series on Tuesday, B, including Medicare supplements, Feb. 25 with an hourlong presentation Medicare Advantage, prescription drugs, time frames, and resources.

Reservations may be made at (614)

The church is located at 3730 Broadway, Grove City. The free program It will allow individuals to learn the will take place from 7 to 8 p.m.

Charismatic Mass

The Columbus Catholic Charismatic will be preceded by praise and wor-Renewal will sponsor a charismatic ship at 6 p.m., and will be followed Mass at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 26 by a coffee-only fellowship. at Columbus St. Elizabeth Church, 6077 Sharon Woods Blvd. The Mass 914-8556.

For more information, call (614)

February 16, 2014 Catholic Times 7

Philosopher and legal scholar to speak on religion in the courts pert Francis J. Beckwith will speak at on philosophical studies of religion. Franciscan University of Steubenville on at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 20. His talk on "Taking Rites Seriously? How Courts and Legal Scholars Diminish Religious Belief," will take place in the Tony and Nina Gentile Gallery of the J. C. Williams Center.

Beckwith will examine the views of legal scholars who argue that religious worldviews are unreasonable and that religiously informed policy proposals have no place in a secular liberal democracy. He will explain why these scholars are mistaken and how their mistakes arise from a deep ignorance of the nature and content of religious beliefs in general and Christian beliefs in particular.

Beckwith is professor of philosophy and church-state studies at Baylor University, where he serves as assistant director of the graduate program in phiseries.

Legal and political philosophy ex- losophy and co-director of the program

He is the author of several books, including Politics for Christians: Statecraft as Soulcraft; Return to Rome: Confessions of an Evangelical Catholic; and Defending Life: A Moral and Legal Case Against Abortion Choice. He has published articles about politics, culture, and religion in many academic journals and has spoken for several Christian ministries throughout his career.

Beckwith's talk is part of the university's spring 2014 distinguished speaker series, during which Franciscan is hosting leaders who integrate their faith and public life and inspire the next generation to be a transforming presence in the Church and society.

The talk is free and will be co-sponsored by the university's Office of Academic Affairs and the Henkels lecture

Matt Fradd to speak at St. John Neumann

Matt Fradd is Australian by myths about porn. Then he unbirth and Catholic by choice. twists the lies, shines light on After experiencing a profound the darkness, and offers hope conversion at World Youth Day to those who are ready to reject in Rome in 2000, he commit- the counterfeit and embrace the ted himself to inviting others truth. He backs up his arguments to know Jesus Christ and the with startling statistics, real-life Church He founded.

As a missionary in Canada and Ireland. Fradd proclaimed the Gospel to more than 10,000 teens and young adults. He also he points those who are addicted has served the Church through full-time lay ministry in Australia, Ireland, Canada, and Texas. He lives with his wife and children in southern California, where he works as an apologist and speaker with Catholic Antious passion for the faith when he speaks about the wounds that poreighthen to 12th-graders and their nography inflicts, the healing that Christ offers in the Sacraments, and the freedom the Church pro- you know and love is struggling poses in its teachings on the virtue of chastity.

I'm supporting the industry," and others prevent people from seeing pornography for what it truly is: a diabolical counterfeit for love.

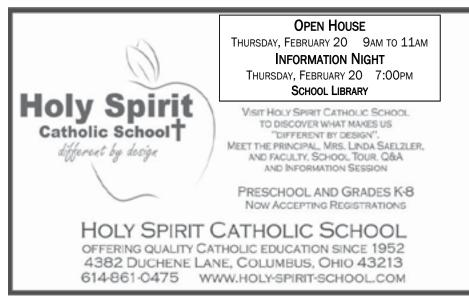

In an entertaining presentation, are seven of the most-common fice at (740) 965-1358.

stories, and the rock-solid wisdom of the Church's teachings on human sexuality. With patient understanding and firm resolve, to or who have been wounded by pornography to the only source of true freedom and lasting healing: Jesus Christ and the Sacraments Fradd will speak at Sunbury St. John Neumann Church, 9633 E. State Route 37, at 7 p.m. Sun-He best demonstrates his infecday and Monday, March 2 and 3. The March 2 presentation is for parents. The March 3 program is open to all adults. If someone with this addiction, come and invite anyone you think will benefit Myths such as "It's just harm- from Fradd's message. His new less entertainment," "It's not like book Delivered will be available at each presentation, along with many other valuable resources.

You can learn more about Matt Fradd and this program at Catholic.com. If you have questions or want more information, contact Fradd exposes what he believes the St. John Neumann parish of-

February 16, 2014 Catholic Times 9 8 Catholic Times February 16, 2014

NEW ODU PROGRAM OFFERS EXPANDED FORMATS

year of offering working adults an opportunity to real-world knowledge, tools, and skills they can earn their degree, has announced significant en- use to move forward in their career." said Karen hancements to its adult education program to better serve the needs of current and future students.

The program has changed its name from LEAD (learning enhanced adult degree) to adult and continuing education. This more accurately represents the university's offerings, and better reflects its students may attend class." goal to pursue additional degree and certificate programs for adult learners. It also has relocated from a building on Airport Drive near the campus their degree. The program offers classes at ODU's to the Sunbury Road campus itself, meaning students will have easier access to the university's campus. The following degrees and certificates are academic and business resources.

needs of students who live and work in the northier for prospective students to explore and compare cate option. all of the formats in which they can earn an MBA.

"More adults are pursuing a college education now than ever before, and they desire a program adult or call (614) 251-7400.

THE KNIGHTS OF

SAINT JOHN INTERNATIONAL

SUPREME CONVENTION

Ohio Dominican University, which is in its 20th that is flexible, convenient, and helps them gain Gray, ODU's executive director of adult education. "These improvements modernize and strengthen almost every aspect of ODU's adult and continuing education program, from its market-sensitive curriculum to the convenient locations in which

ODU launched its LEAD program in 1995. Since then, it has helped more than 2,600 students achieve available: associate of science in business adminis-In addition, it has identified a permanent location tration; bachelor of science in accounting; bachelor for ODU's Dublin campus so it can better serve the of science in business administration: certificate in accounting; and master of business administration. west suburbs, and it has restructured ODU's master ODU also recently launched a master of science in of business administration program, making it eas- medical practice management, as well as a certifi-

> For more information on adult and continuing education at ODU, visit www.ohiodominican.edu/

Columbus Commanderies 97 and 98 of the Knights of St. John will host the order's international supreme convention at the Renaissance Hotel, 50 N. 3rd St., Columbus, from July 20-26. Members will gather from many parts of the world, including the Americas and West Africa, England, and Germany. The Knights of St. John seek to better serve their parishes, communities, and the world. For more information, contact Jim Schafhausen at supremconv2014@aol.com.

DELAWARE ST. MARY OPEN HOUSE

Delaware St. Mary School, 66 E. William St., will host an informational open house at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12 for parents of preschool students entering kindergarten and for families whose children will be new to the school for the 2014-2015 academic year. Kindergarten teachers and school administrators will be at the event, and a tour of the school will be conducted. For personal tours or more information, call (740) 362-8961.

Volunteers needed

The St. John Learning Center in Columbus is looking for volunteers to assist with high-school equivalency (GED) diploma and computer classes. Most volunteer times would be in the evenings or on Saturday. Also needed are college interns who could assist with volunteer recruitment and management.

The center, in the former St. John the Evangelist School at 640 S. Ohio Ave., has been providing educational opportunities on the city's near southeast side for more than 20 years. Its mission is to promote literacy, learning, and leadership. Its main emphasis has been on GED and computer

In addition, the center offers youth programs and exercise classes and publishes the 05 Live newsletter, which highlights programs and businesses in the 43205 ZIP code area.

St. John Neumann Open House

Sunbury St. John Neumann Church is swinging open its doors on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 16, for an informal look at its expanded worship space.

The community is invited to explore the church and learn about its history, art, magnificent stained- glass windows, and more during free 20-minute guided tours. Light refreshments will be provided in the Faith and Family Center.

The church is located at 9633 East State Route 37.

VOTED BEST IN THE U.S.
Now is the best time to plan and design your landscape. Patios, pools, walk-ways, retaining walls, lawn sprinkler systems 268-3834 men to ignite the flame. I disagree. I love, we contribute to the people we are today. Our families are so inundated with distractions that we forget the important things needed in everyday living. It is the small things we do for each other that count. Every one of us has a role to play in the lives of our friends and our children.

PLUMBING

They also say that the family is dead in society today – a fact not lost on countless pundits who deem to express their opinions on a mind-numbing basis. For us to survive, we must block out the white noises we hear from all sides and come to a place where the only voice we hear is God's. With our

Get started today at ohiodominican.edu.

Columbus'

Catholic University

Ohio Dominican University is the only Catholic university in the

Columbus Diocese. Priority registration for ODU's fall semester begins March 31, 2014. Register at ohiodominican.edu/Apply.

1216 Sunbury Road | Columbus, Ohio 43219 | 614.251.4500 | ohiodominican.edu

Through our broad range of pre-professional and professional degree offerings, and our commitment to community service, we offer an exceptional opportunity to learn and grow academically, spiritually and personally. Our students are prepared to lead and to serve others in our global economy.

They say that great men are forged by busy schedules, it can be a daunting fire and that it is the privilege of lesser task, but we must make the time to sit and reflect. He speaks to us in whispers believe that by our sacrifice and by our and in the eyes of our children, and we self-righteousness can be something need to be ready for His message.

> It is not for us judge one another, but to understand. The next time you argue with your spouse or son or daughter or neighbor or friend, think of the power of three simple words – "I forgive you" - words that can change a world. It is together that God unites us in a bond that no one can take away. We are blessed to have the support and love of our family. Let us pass that on to others who seem to be struggling in society.

So much of the way we react to unfamiliar environments is built into our human nature. We are afraid of

Visit ODU

in Ohio

Almost 50 majors

Top-tier Midwest universit

Ranked one of the most affordable private colleges

• 14:1 student-to-faculty ratio

• 18 athletic programs

DOMINICAN

UNIVERSITY*

people and things that are different from ourselves. Rather than try and understand, we mock and ridicule. Our that drives us away from learning about

God sets each person on par with others, not to separate, but to bring us closer together as a family in love, in peace, and in harmony. Much like music, it gives us a better appreciation for what we have and for those less

A family is made up of many different things. It is a group of almost anything the mind can comprehend. It reminds me of the poem written by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow titled Sermon of St. Francis. The birds flock to St. Francis' parish every day to ask for food, and it is then that he teaches them of the wonders of God. Although he does not believe that the birds understand him, Francis is able to bring himself peace by doing this.

By acts of kindness to those things or people we cannot fathom, we are bringing ourselves closer to what Christ had envisioned. He wanted a world in which a life was so important that we could not conceive of any other kind of world. His was a life of sacrifice, a sacrifice so important that He gave His

Lighting the Way Joseph Thomas

When you give up something you love for the sake of another, do it for the right reasons. Do it because you cannot imagine doing anything else. Do it because your soul tells you it is right. Give for your family, friends, and people you don't even know. Do it because it is what makes your heart full, but, most importantly, do it for love. For love is all we have in the end, and it will be the greatest reward we will ever receive, overshadowed by God's forgiving grace and gleaming light.

May God bless you and keep you. May God bless our family, our Christian family, for the strength and character to survive. May the wind be forever at your backs and may His peace be with Joseph Thomas is a freelance writer and active in many diocesan and church ministries. He is a member of Gahanna St. Matthew Church. He posts his thoughts online at http:// truegiftoffaith.blogspot.com.

(888) 696-4462

www.ohiocatholicfcu.com

APPLICANTS NEEDED! $35,000

in Catholic school education scholarships!

Must apply by February 28, 2014.

Visit www.ohiocatholicfcu.com/scholarships for more information.

10 Catholic Times/February 16, 2014 February 16, 2014/Catholic Times 11

Top: The emergency room entrance at Mount Carmel Medical Center in the Franklinton neighborhood of Columbus.

Below: Renee Hawley, director of the crime and trauma assistance program offered for children and adults at the medical center by the Mount Carmel Health System since 1997.

Photos courtesy Mount Carmel Health System

BY TIM PUET

Reporter, Catholic Times

Anything which causes trauma in a person's life has a major impact, whether it's a one-time event like an auto accident or an abusive behavior pattern that's been occurring for a long period. The physical difficulties related to such occurrences often are readily observed and treatable, but their unseen effects can continue to devastate a trauma victim for years if the person can't turn to someone for help.

The Mount Carmel Health System's crime and trauma assistance program (CTAP), the only one of its kind in cen- and state sources, but the Mount Carmel tral Ohio, offers such aid to children and adults at no charge, using education, therapy, and individual and group support to help bring about recovery for anyone dealing with the aftereffects of a traumatic experience.

It was founded in 1997 through the efforts of former Mount Carmel staff member Dawn Gross. "Dawn saw in her work with trauma patients that they had a need no hospital in the area was fulfilling."

said Mount Carmel CTAP director Renee Hawley. "It wasn't that difficult for hospitals to identify and take care of traumarelated physical symptoms and conditions and send the patients home, but the emotional and spiritual crises which also were connected to the trauma weren't being addressed."

Gross obtained grants through the federal Victims of Crime and Violence Against Women acts to start the program. Those grants were its principal funding sources for several years. Recent shifts in funding priorities mean the program is receiving less money from federal Foundation has increased its support of the program to minimize the impact of funding cuts elsewhere.

A grant from the foundation last year enabled the CTAP program to add new office space and two newly furnished group counseling rooms in its location at Mount Carmel Medical Center in Columbus' Franklinton neighborhood. The new space is being used every day by Hawcial workers, with the fifth on track to obtain a license later this year. Office hours of therapy works. are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

MOUNT CARMEL TRAUMA AID PROGRAM IS UNIQUE TO AREA

Hawley came to Mount Carmel in May 2012 from the James Cancer Center at had been in charge of programs to help the children of cancer patients' families. Besides her CTAP work, she also is director of Camp Hope, a three-day Mount Carmel program held at Marmon Valley Farm in Logan County for people dealing with the loss of a loved one.

"I came to Mount Carmel because of the reputation its CTAP program has," been here for four to eight years. That's a long time in this kind of program, where the stress it involves often means people don't last. My work with cancer patients at the James made me more interested in trauma cases and made me realize this was the kind of work I wanted to specialize in, and there's no one I know of who does that type of work better than Mount Carmel.'

All of Mount Carmel's CTAP counselors are trained in and regularly use cognitive behavioral therapy and a method known as EMDR (eve movement desensitization and reprocessing) to help patients deal with their trauma.

Cognitive behavioral therapy helps patients identify their negative thoughts and beliefs and the reasons behind them, and is used in all types of counseling. EMDR has proven particularly useful in helping trauma and post-traumatic stress patients since its introduction by a therapist named Francine Shapiro in the late 1980s and early 1990s. It emphasizes disturbing memories as the cause of trauma and was developed by Shapiro as a result of her observation that certain eye movements ley and Mount Carmel's five other CTAP reduce the intensity of disturbing thought.

therapists. Hawley and four of her five Hawley used the hypothetical case of an the patient to reach a point where he or colleagues are licensed independent so- adult dealing with trauma as the result of she can go past that site without those an auto accident to illustrate how this type responses.'

"In working with this or any kind of trauma, we have people repeat the story of what happened over and over, deal-The Ohio State University, where she ing with it in a series of steps which ulapy doesn't do anything to the memory of what caused the trauma, but allows related to what happened.

"In the case of an accident victim, he or she may, for instance, break out in a sweat or start to breathe heavily or to Hawley said. "All my colleagues have shake whenever driving past the site where the accident happened on the way of what happened and ultimately allows vou didn't anticipate."

Photo/Mount Carmel Health

Traumatic events can affect young people such as the unidentified child shown after an auto accident in the picture below, provided by a photo service. © Jarenwicklund/Dreamstime.com At right, Mount Carmel Health System crime and trauma assistance counselor Linda Strapp talks to a client.

Hawley said the treatment begins with a visit or two in which the patient talks about what happened in general, then focuses on a disturbing memory for about 15 or 30 seconds. "You can just timately leave them able to resolve their see sometimes how people are reliving emotions about it," she said. "The therap a painful event," she said. "Their eyes glaze over, or their hands and legs get agitated, or they'll hunch in a protective people to get past the emotional barriers way. You can tell they may be physically in the office, but mentally, they're back at the place where the event happened.

"Sometimes something unrelated, like perhaps the boss yelling at you at work, will pop up in the middle of the discussion. When that happens, we ask people to and from work. These are physical reactions set off by the emotional triggers box in which they can dump things like related to the accident. EMDR helps septhis, which aren't the source of the trauma arate the physical and emotional aspects but can add to it or bring it back in a way people find relaxing.

phase, the therapist initiates eye movement by moving his or her hands from side to side, with the patient instinctively Mount Carmel CTAP office suite. Before following. A device known as a tapper a child's treatment begins, the child and a also is used to provide alternating stimuparent or guardian must be seen for initial lation to the two sides of the brain. It consists of a control box with two pulsers, one held in each hand. The pulsers alternately vibrate like a pager or a cell phone, pro- able people of the community, and that's viding a gentle stimulation which many

"After a while, the client is asked to visualize a disturbing image and match it with a positive thought," Hawley said. "This continues, with the help of the hand movements and the tappers, until the therapist and client believe the situation has reached a satisfactory point of to a program like this," Hawley said. "It's resolution."

pothetical accident victim, this can take place in two to four sessions. However, most of the cases dealt with by her and the rest of the Mount Carmel CTAP team a traumatic experience. When needed, it involve behavior such as sexual or physiprovides transportation to its offices and cal assault, rape, domestic violence, stalking, hate crimes, suicide, homicide, gang violence, burglary, robbery, elder abuse, or child abuse. It can take a year and often more for a victim in such instances to reach a state of emotional stability.

The CTAP program covers people of all ages, including children as young as age and staff members. 4. Special programs for them include the For more information on the program, therapies mentioned above, modified for contact CTAP at (614) 234-5900.

assessment by a clinician.

"When Dawn Gross started this program, she knew it would serve the vulnerwho mainly uses it." Hawley said. Last year, the CTAP program assisted about 290 people, more than half of them with incomes of less than $25,000 a year.

"Since there is no charge to participants, we see a lot of refugees, a lot of women, a lot of marginalized people, most of whom wouldn't have been able to afford access a prime example of Mount Carmel living Hawley said that in the case of the hyout its stated mission to provide care for the poor and the underserved."

CTAP also assists the people close to trauma victims who can be affected by offers interpretive services. Additional services it can provide include court and legal advocacy; off-site services to clients without access to transportation or with disabilities; discussion groups for sexual assault victims in high schools; and trauma education to social service agencies

12 Catholic Times Catholic Times 13 February 16, 2014 February 16, 2014

CATHOLIC SOCIAL SERVICES COUNSELING

BY TIM PUET

Reporter, Catholic Times

When life brings unexpected problems and people look for professional assistance to help them cope, Catholic Social Services offers counseling that goes beyond the physical and mental aspects of those difficulties by adding a spiritual perspective.

The diocesan agency has followed the principles of Catholic social teaching as the guiding philosophy of its work since its founding in 1945. It has always served people without regard to their religious background, and now is offering counseling with a prayerbased format to clients who express a preference for such a program when they call for an initial appointment.

Leah Hobbs, one of five counselors employed by the agency, has completed Biblical counseling training with Breakthrough Reconciliation Ministries, a Marion-based, nondenominational organization which for more than 25 years has helped counseling professionals who want to add a spiritual approach to the clinical training they have received

Hobbs said the combination of the two encourages renewed hope in overcoming obstacles and injuries, as well as promoting emotional inner healing and freedom through Christ.

"Everyone has been wounded by life," she said. "Those wounds can create barriers to our relations with others and with God. I see God as love. If I can bring that to people in need and be the hands and feet of Jesus, that can be an agent for change."

Hobbs, who has been with CSS for the past three years, is a licensed independent social worker with bachelor's and master's degrees from The Ohio State University. Her training in spiritually to expand her use of cogni- may feel overwhelmed by it all tive behavioral therapy (CBT) in helping clients see their strengths and identify thought patterns that are holding them back from living a more satisfying life.

"CBT and my recent training with Breakthrough are a perfect match," she said. "CBT deals with examining a person's thoughts and identifying cognitive dissonance; that is, negative thoughts and beliefs. therapy, the counselor and the patient actively work together to help the patient understand the reasons for negative feelings and find ways of overcoming them.

"CBT in the Christian context sees prayer as a great catalyst for change. Once we identify our brokenness, we can better relate to God and to others, see how faulty thinking perpetuates problems in those relationships, and work to overcome from the high-risk pregnancy those problems."

Hobbs and Meredith Adams, a clinical supervisor and counselor with CSS for the past 10 years, specialize in maternal counseling, while also working with adults and adolescents who have a variety of problems. Hobbs has completed training as a postpartum doula - a person who provides support before and after labor but is not a doctor, nurse, or midwife. Adams, also a licensed independent social worker, has a bachelor's degree from the University of Dayton and a master's from OSU. She has significant experience in treating for mood and anxiety disorders in the perinatal period – the months immediately before and after pregnancy.

"Postpartum (after-birth) anxiety and depression is probably what I deal with most often with new mothers, and it's easy to understand why," Adams said. "Motherhood is a stress-filled thing for any woman, so it's Health Department's measurebased counseling enables her understandable why a mother ment significantly exceeded the part of a family that was active

- certainly with her first child but at any other time, especially if she's feeling pressure from herself, the people around her, or society in general to be 'the perfect mother."

New mothers often find it difficult to come to the CSS offices in downtown Columbus. so Hobbs and CSS counselor Andrea Rehl frequently visit homes to provide counseling there. In addition, the mater-Unlike some other forms of nal counseling program just opened a satellite office at Columbus Holy Rosary-St. John Church, 648 S. Ohio Ave., and is taking referrals there.

Maternal counseling from the agency recently became available to anyone who is eligible for Medicaid. It previously had been limited to clients of the Columbus Health Department. Adams said most referrals to CSS for maternal counseling come from the department and clinic at The Ohio State University, or are self-referrals. CSS collaborates with two other multiagency groups in central Ohio – the Maternal Depression Task Force and the WIC Advisory Council – to coordinate services which benefit the health of infants and mothers. WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) is a federal program which provides supplemental foods, health care referrals, and nutrition education for mothers in low-income families and for their children from birth to age 5.

CSS regularly surveys its clients at random to determine the effectivenessofitswork.Itsmost recent survey showed a 100 percent satisfaction rate, with the same percentage of clients also saving that they felt their counselors understood their needs and that they were served effectively. In addition, the agency's rate of successful outcomes as determined by the state Mental goal set by the state.

Stephanie and Mark, a Columbus-area couple shown with their children, were aided by Catholic Social Services counselors. Photo/Catholic Social Services

One such success involved Stephanie and Mark, a couple who were students at a diocesan high school a few years ago and had to deal with an unexpected pregnancy. "At 16 and 17, they faced a challenge they hadn't planned on and had to work through." said Adams, who counseled the couple. "Both of them were dealing with anxiety, depression, and the normal life changes any teenager would be going through at that point, combined with the change in identity they would undergo by becoming parents.

"Counseling was of great assistance in helping them get through this change and in their being able to maintain a stable relationship, as they chose to stay together. They are now married with another child, and spoke last year at Catholic Social Services' annual Breakfast with the Bishop to express their gratitude for what CSS did for them."

Hobbs gave an example of how spiritually centered counseling helped a woman overcome the effects of systematic sexual abuse. "What really was upsetting about this case was that the woman was in a church," she said. "Her mother knew of the abuse, and not only ignored it, but left her daughter with a sense that God did not view her as worthy.

"Jesus came to bind people's wounds and to set captives free, and in this case, to help deal with an incorrect view of how God feels toward us." Hobbs said. "We took her burden to the Lord, and I told her how sorry I personally was that she wasn't honored by the people who should have honored her. Once she realized this, she began a process of forgiveness and healing that is continuing. She's overcome a lot and is still fighting the negatives, but has come a long way, and things are looking brighter for her."

Anyone in central Ohio who feels he or she needs assistance from any CSS counseling program can call the agency at (614) 857-1218. First-time callers are directed to intake worker Lucy Cormier, who sets up an initial appointment within a few days. Appointments can be made for any time from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

CSS employs three other icensed counselors who, like

See CSS, Page 13

Maturing Spirituality Webcasts

The Institute for Maturing Spiritu-subscribe to the series or to an indiality at the Martin de Porres Center, 2330 Airport Drive, Columbus, will present its fifth series of four at www.martindeporrescenter.net webcasts this spring.

Dates, topics, and speakers are: Thursday, April 3, "Ethical Wills: A Legacy of Values" with Andrew Siegel, chief executive officer of GenShare LLC; Wednesday, May 21, "Growing Older and Wiser" with Father Thomas Ryan, CSP; Thursday. June 12. "Caregiving: A Gift in Disguise" with radio producer and reporter Connie tions. Goldman; and Thursday, July 10, "Praising God Creatively" with artist Queen Brooks. All the programs will take place from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

A freewill offering will be taken at the door. Call (614) 416-1910 or email martindeporres@oppeace. org to register.

The webcasts also will be shown at the same time at the Corpus Christi Center for Peace, 1111 Stewart Ave., Columbus, Call (614) 512-3731 for the presentations there.

Other individual faith and residential communities are invited to akisiel@oppeace.org.

vidual webcast by sending in a registration form or registering online and clicking on the "Maturing Spirituality" link. Contact the center at (614) 416-1910 with questions.

Each webcast will include a formal presentation, followed by time for discussion among participants wherever they are located, and an opportunity to send questions and comments to the presenter for sharing with the audience in all loca-

The Institute for Maturing Spirituality offers interfaith programming in the areas of spirituality and holistic wellness, designed especially for adults in the second half of life. for their families, and for professionals who minister to their needs. Encouragement of intergenerational dialogue is an ongoing theme of Institute programming.

Questions about this distance programming may be addressed to the center's director, Sister Arleen Kisiel, OP, at (614) 416-1920 or

ODU Open House

Ohio Dominican University in- step toward completing or earning vites students and working professionals to its adult and continu- ODU's executive director of adult ing education open house from 6 to 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 25 at ODU's Dublin location, 5605 Blaz- lumbus' northwest suburbs a coner Parkway.

Registration begins at 5:30 p.m.. followed by the event at 6. Participants may register at www.ohiodominican.edu/AdultContEdEvents, by calling (614) 251-7400 or by sending an email message to adult@ohiodominican.edu.

Attendees will receive information about program offerings, the admissions process, financial aid opportunities, and academic resources that are available. Attendees who apply to ODU will have as well as a certificate option. their $25 application fee waived.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for students to meet our counselors face to face, learn about ODU's accelerated formats and simple admissions process, and take that first their degree," said Karen Gray, education. "ODU's Dublin location offers students in Dublin and Covenient way to earn their degree just minutes from where they live and work."

ODU offers a variety of undergraduate and graduate business degrees that may be earned by attending class one evening a week either in Dublin or at the university's main campus, 1216 Sunbury Road, Columbus.

This January, ODU launched a master of science degree program in medical practice management,

The university also offers master of business administration degrees in both traditional and online formats. View ODU's entire academic offering at www.ohiodominican.

Bishop Watterson Signees

Seven Columbus Bishop Watterson High School students recently announced their intent to play sports in college. They are (from left): first row, Wesley Graham, football, Ohio Dominican; Ellie Ganz, soccer, Wright State; and Dominic Lombardi, track and field, Drake; second row, Trevor Funk, soccer, Capital; Alec Greene, football, Miami of Ohio; John Bogue, football, Ohio Dominican; and Ryan Urguhart, football, Ohio Dominican. Photo courtesy Bishop Watterson High School

Seven Columbus St. Francis DeSales High School students recently signed letters of intent to continue their playing careers in college. They are (from left): Josh VanCuyk, Wheeling Jesuit, hockey; Tucker Yinger, Dayton, football; Griff Saunders, Bowling Green, football; Kenya Cason, Connecticut, volleyball; McLean Fitzmartin, Wheeling Jesuit, lacrosse; Austin Jackson, Rollins, lacrosse; and Andrew Sparks, Walsh, football. Photo courtesy St. Francis DeSales High School

CSS, continued from Page 12 -

Hobbs and Adams, work with individuals and families and also have particular specialties: Becky D'Alesio, who specializes in working with couples; Shani Topolosky, whose specialty is dealing with trauma cases; and Rehl, who mainly works with children.

Treatment is based on individual needs. Some potential clients are referred elsewhere if it's determined their needs can best be served by another agency. For instance, CSS does not do counseling tion, which certifies that all operations for drug addiction, but makes referrals and programs meet best-practices stanin such cases.

Clients are asked questions about their health history, current medications, employment history, and current relationships to provide their counselor with an overall picture of their circumstances. All such information is strictly confidential between counselor and client.

There is no charge for the initial contact with CSS. Subsequent services are covered by most insurance companies, as well as Medicaid and private-pay insurance programs. Hours for the agency's office in downtown Columbus, where most clients are seen, are 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays.

Catholic Social Services is nationally accredited by the Council on Accreditadards for professional service.

To learn more about CSS counseling programs, call the agency at (614) 221-5891, extension 218, visit its offices on the second floor of the Catholic Center. 197 E. Gav St. in Columbus, or visit its website, www.colscss.org.

14 Catholic Times February 16, 2014 February 16, 2014

Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time (Cycle A)

Jesus radically alters our understanding of the Law

Lawrence L. Hummer

Sirach 15:15-20 1 Corinthians 2:6-10 Matthew 5:17-37

We now enter the heart of the Sermon on the Mount. "I have come not to abolish (the Law) but to fulfill it" seems to contradict much of what Paul wrote, especially in Galatians and Romans. Some renowned scholars have even suggested that the Gospel of Matthew was written in part as a response to Paul's preaching of the Gospel. Matthew appealed to a faction of the early church which did not want to part ways with its Jewish roots. This gospel then provides an ongoing link with Judaism, from a late first-century Christian perspective.

In this sermon, Jesus radically alters our understanding of various statutes of the Law, and in the process requires of Christian disciples that their own righteousness must surpass that of the scribes and Pharisees or "you will not enter the kingdom of heaven." That is a sobering thought. What follows (in Matthew 5:21-48) shows what Matthew means by a "surpassing righteousness." It must be said that it causes more problems for would-be disciples in every age, not least in our own, than probably any other teaching of Jesus.

The fifth commandment says "You shall not kill." Jesus adds to this that it also refers to hatred of and attitudes toward others. All such behavior is important before the only judge who matters -- God. What we hold within ourselves is what God already knows and will be the basis upon which we are judged. The commandment not to kill is absolute. In the teaching of the Church, the taking of unborn life is as forbidden as capital punishment. But our attitudes about others are just as liable for judgment. This is the radical nature of the teaching of Jesus, and the requirement it makes on us.

The sixth commandment forbids adultery. Jesus adds the requirement to not even look at anyone lustfully. Notice how the text seems to be addressed to men, inasmuch as Jesus says. "Anyone who looks at a woman with lust has already committed adultery with her." This is followed by the exaggerated claims to pluck out a problematic eye or cut off a problematic hand. These requirements are explained as Semitic overkill to make the point that we are as responsible for our thoughts as we are for our actions.

The commandment about divorce was not among the "big 10," but was found in Deuteronomy 24:1-4. It allowed a man to divorce his wife for practically any reason. If she remarried and then divorced a second time, she was then not permitted to remarry the first husband. Deuteronomy does not say anything about marrying someone else. It is restricted to her marrying her original husband.

In practice, marriage became a once-for-life relationship in the Old Testament. Under the influence of the Roman Empire, divorce became more common, but Matthew presents a more stringent portrait of marriage here, forbidding divorce except in the case of an "unlawful marriage." He is probably referring to marriages that Gentiles had entered into which did not consider Jewish restrictions regarding what degree of kinship two parties to a marriage enjoyed. Jesus says little about marriage, but what he does say favors the traditional view.

On oaths, Jesus says not to swear at all. "Swear" here means calling upon God to witness to the truth of what one is saving. Jesus says, "Do not do this." If you mean "Yes," say "Yes," and if you mean "No," say "No." Anything else is from the evil one. The Christian is supposed to be truthful. If we are, then there is no need to swear. Our "Yes" should mean "Yes" and our "No" should mean "No." We should never have to swear to the truth of something if truth resides in us. If it does not, then what we say doesn't mean much anyway.

FatherLawrenceHummer, pastoratChillicotheSt. Mary, can be reached at hummerl@stmarychillicothe.com.

CATHOLIC MAN, continued from Page 3

cluding sponsoring RCIA candidates, being an extraordinary minister of the Eucharist, and participating in nominees. Others nominated were: Jeffrey Gardner, Cothe Holy Name Society, maintenance committee, lit-lumbus St. Catharine; Bill Hinger, Columbus Immacuurgy committee, "That Man Is You!" and more. He late Conception; Bill Welch, Sunbury St. John Neumann; also helped build the Children of Mary's chapel and retreat center in rural Licking County and continues doing ongoing maintenance there.

In the community, he is a member of the Madison Grange and a past member of the Goodwill Industries board, has been an auxiliary state patrolman for the last two decades, has donated nearly 20 gallons of blood to recycling programs in Heath.

Buttress was chosen for the award from among nine George Blubaugh, Columbus Our Lady of Victory; John O'Connell, Plain City St. Joseph; Joseph Regan, Columbus St. Mary Magdalene; Steve Boyden, Lancaster St. Mary; and Jeffrey Bernard, Gahanna St. Matthew.

The award was established in 1957. The recipient is chosen by members of the Catholic Men's Luncheon Club, the diocesan Catholic men's ministry, the Cathothe American Red Cross, and helped start one of the first lic Men's Retreat League, the Knights of Columbus, the Serra Club, and the luncheon club's chaplain

The Weekday Bible Readings

MONDAY James 1:1-11 Psalm 119:67-68,71-72,75-76 Mark 8:11-13

> TUESDAY James 1:12-18 Psalm 94:12-15,18-19 Mark 8:14-21

> > WEDNESDAY James 1:19-27 Psalm 15:2-5 Mark 8:22-26

THURSDAY James 2:1-9 Psalm 34:2-7 Mark 8:27-33

FRIDAY James 2:14-24,26 Psalm 112:1-6 Mark 8:34-9:1

SATURDAY 1 Peter 5:1-4 Psalm 23:1-6 Matthew 16:13-19

DIOCESAN WEEKLY RADIO AND TELEVISION MASS SCHEDULE WEEK OF FEBRUARY 16, 2014

SUNDAY MASS

10:30 a.m. Mass from Columbus St. Joseph Cathedral on St. Gabriel Radio (820 AM), Columbus, and at www.stgabrielradio.com. Mass with the Passionist Fathers at 7:30 a.m. on WWHO-TV (the CW), Channel 53. Columbus. Check local cable system for WWHO's cable channel listing. Mass from Our Lady of the Angels Monastery, Birmingham, Ala., at 8 a.m. on EWTN (Time Warner Channel 385, Insight Channel 382, or WOW Channel 378)

(Encores at noon, 7 p.m., and midnight). Mass from Kenton Immaculate Conception Church at 10 a.m. on Time Warner Cable Channel 6 (Hardin County). Mass from Portsmouth St. Mary Church at noon on Time Warner Channel 24

DAILY MASS

in Scioto County.

8 a.m., Our Lady of the Angels Monastery in Birmingham, Ala. (Encores at noon, 7 p.m. and midnight) See EWTN above; and on I-Lifety (Channel 113 in Ada, Logan, Millersburg, Murray City and Washington C.H.: Channel 125 in Marion, Newark, Newcomerstown and New Philadelphia; and Channel 207 in Zanesville); 8 p.m., St. Gabriel Radio (820 AM), Columbus, and at www.stgabrielradio.com.

> We pray Week II, Seasonal Proper of the Liturgy of the Hours

Accelerating Catholic reform

Two recent books suggest that, amidst challenges and problems, the pace of authentic Catholic renewal is accelerating in these United States.

Anne Hendershott and Christopher White's Renewal (Encounter Books) was nicely timed to coincide with Pope Francis' recently published comments on seminary reform. There, the pope stressed the imperative of integral formation, in which human development, spiritual growth, intellectual formation, and the development of pastoral skills mesh together in preparing the priests of the future.

As Hendershott and White demonstrate, American seminaries, once deeply troubled by the confusion of the immediate post-Vatican II decades, are at the forefront of that renewal, in ways that might well be imitated by other countries in the West.

The Long Lent of 2002, and the corruptions it exposed, made it clear that dumbing down seminary formation had disastrous consequences for the Church's ministry and credibility. Not without difficulty, the bishops of the United States took seminary reform in hand. And today, rather than playing defense, American seminaries like Mundelein in Chicago are exploring how the Church might go on offense—not in an offensive way, but by developing new models of a 21st-century apologetics that invites disenchanted post-moderns to experience the divine mercy and come to know the truths to which that experience leads.

As Hendershott and White show, the days of seminaries dominated by various forms of psychobabble are, in the main, over. Moreover, the recent increase episcopal leaders in U.S. Catholicism today, there is demonstrates both the enduring influence of John Paul II (who many 21st-century seminarians continue to identify as their role model) and the importance of a strong sense of Catholic identity in attracting and forming future pastors.

THE CATHOLIC DIFFERENCE George Weigel

That strong sense of Catholic identity will yield evangelical effectiveness if it is deepened by a man's immersion in the mystery of the Eucharist, in which the redemption wrought by the unique, salvific priesthood of Jesus Christ is extended through history sac-

Cardinal Edwin O'Brien, himself a reforming seminary rector when that was no easy thing, once remarked that "a man will give his life for a mystery, but not for a question mark." That is why, in the reformed American seminaries of the 21st century, immersion in the eucharistic mystery, theological scholarship, pastoral skills, a strong sense of Catholic identity, and a commitment to evangelical mission go together.

And that, Hendershott and White suggest, is true of U.S. Catholicism as a whole, especially in its pastoral leadership. Among the most effective priestly and in the number of applicants for priestly formation no antinomy between pastoral compassion and evangelical zeal, on the one hand, and robust Catholic identity, on the other. It's all of a piece. The growing ends of the Church in the United States are those that have grasped that truth and are living it in mission.

Catholic Times 15

Then there is Duncan Stroik's splendidly illustrated essay collection The Church Building as a Sacred Place: Beauty, Transcendence, and the Eternal (Hillenbrand Books). The book's publisher takes its name from a pioneer of the Liturgical Movement in its classic period, Chicago's Msgr. Reynold Hillenbrand. And it's altogether appropriate that a house named in Hillenbrand's honor should publish 23 reflections by one of the architects who is leading American Church architecture into a nobler future.

If seminaries were in trouble in the immediate postconciliar period, so was church design. Happily, the days of Pizza Hut "worship spaces" seem over. And in no small part that's because scholar-practitioners like Stroik have helped Catholicism rediscover how various classical approaches to architecture and decoration can suggest, through stone and glass and other worldly materials, something of the divine mystery at the center of Catholic worship.

Beauty, Stroik knows, is a uniquely attractive path to the true and the good in a world confused about truth and goodness. Thus, in the approach to church design and decoration taken by Stroik and those who share his convictions, the full richness of Catholic theology, not a spare modernism, informs the architect's vision and the Church's worship.

Identity and mission, as always, go together.

George Weigel is Distinguished Senior Fellow of the Ethics and Public Policy Center in Washington, D.C.

Harvey

"I always have a wonderful mons. Junior Mark Gnatowski is time just where I am."

– Elwood P. Dowd

And the Columbus Bishop Ready High School thespians believe will play Judge Omar Gaffney. their audience will have a wonderful time in the Ready Little Theater as the all-student production of Harvey, directed by Ready faculty member Jill Larger, takes the stage.

The Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy by Mary Chase provides roles for 12 Ready students.

The cast includes seniors Michael Osborn as Elwood, Trianna Connolly as his sister, Veta Louise Simmons, and Melanie Francis as Veta's daughter, Myrtle Mae Sim-

Dr. Lyman Sanderson, and sophomore Michael Creagh, who has appeared in every school play production since he entered Ready, Performances are scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday and Sunday, Feb. 21 and 23, with a Saturday matinee on Feb. 22 at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $9 for those 65 and older, and $8 for stu-

"I've wrestled with reality for 35 years, Doctor, and I'm happy to state I finally won out over it."

- Elwood P. Dowd

Will you see the rabbit?

16 Catholic Times February 16, 2014

Pray for our dead

BALL, Virginia L., 90, Feb. 7 St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Zanesville

BOWERS, John W. "Bill," 88, Feb. 3 St. Nicholas Church, Zanesville

BRACKEN, Joyce M., 78, Feb. 5 St. Joan of Arc Church, Powell

CARTER, Lillie S., Feb. 8 St. Thomas Church, Columbus

CAVESTRI, Richard C., 72, Feb. 4 St. Brendan Church, Hilliard

CHILLI, David A., 94, Feb. 5 St. Matthias Church, Columbus

CLARK, Mary K., 81, Feb. 5 St. Vincent de Paul Church, Mount Vernon

CONTINO, Robert W. Jr., 49, Feb. 3 St. John the Baptist Church, Columbus

CUMMINGS, Lawrence G., 76, Feb. 9 St. James the Less Church, Columbus

DEVITT, Paul, 49, Feb. 4 St. Brendan Church, Hilliard

GRABER, Robert W., 73, Feb. 9 St. Joseph Church, Plain City

GUGLIELMI, Gary R., 58, Feb. 9 St. John the Baptist Church, Columbus

HACKETT, Elizabeth A., 80, Jan. 29 Holy Cross Church, Columbus

HAMILTON, Harriet M., 79, Jan. 30 St. Vincent de Paul Church, Mount Vernon

HARBAGE, Donna, 79, Jan. 20

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Grove City

Life issues will be the focus for an evening of fellowship, praise, encouragement, and prayer at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb.

18 in the activity center of Plain City St.

The speaker for the event, sponsored by the Plain City Evening Aglow

group, will be Susan Dammann, medical specialist for Heartbeat International. Having witnessed the reality of abortion firsthand during her hospital employment, she has a unique love for unborn children and their parents.

Joseph Church, 670 W. Main St.

HUFF, John Jr., 85 Jan. 28 Holy Rosary-St. John Church, Columbus

KOHL, Mary, 93, Jan. 31 Sacred Heart Church, Coshocton

HECK, Raymond E., 72, Jan. 23

St. Mary Church, Columbus

St. Pius X Church, Reynoldsburg

HILSHEIMER, Richard A., 76, Feb. 5

KRISCHAK, Ethel M., 89, Feb. 7 St. Brendan Church, Hilliard

LETSON, Marilyn A., 86, formerly of Columbus, Feb. 3

St. Joseph Church, Sylvania

McGINNIS, Michael G., 69, Feb. 5 St. Joseph Church, Circleville

MENDUNI, Dr. Albert M., formerly of Columbus, 68, Feb. 4

Good Shepherd Church, Tallahassee, Fla.

MEYER, Frank R., 83, Jan. 23

St. Vincent de Paul Church, Mount Vernon

MUIR, Phillip, 51, Feb. 5 St. Agnes Church, Columbus

SNIVELY, Joseph R., 65, Feb. 3 St. Francis de Sales Church, Newark

SOWERS, Larry J., 71, Feb. 3 St. Bernard Church, Corning

THIEKEN, Kathryn E., 67, Feb. 9 St. Mark Church, Lancaster

THURN, Robert A., 89, Feb. 5 St. Catharine Church, Columbus

Health Centers.

She has served as vice president of Columbus Right to Life, director of education for the Center for Bioethi-cal Reform, director of the Open Gate

Pregnancy Care Center, and nurse manager for Pregnancy Decision

Plain City Evening Aglow is an interfaith group which meets on the third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. For more information, contact Teresa Mullins at (614) 878-1187 or email Plain

City Aglow at nhmontg@gmail.com.

Joseph P. Buttress

Funeral Mass for Joseph P. Buttress, St. Lawrence Haven, the St. Vincent 90, who died Saturday, Feb. 8, was de Paul Society, the Joint Organizaheld Thursday, Feb. 13 at Columbus tion for Inner-City Needs, and the In-St. Christopher Church. Burial was at terfaith Hospitality Network. He was St. Joseph Cemetery, Columbus.

He was born on April 20, 1923 in Cambridge to Albert and Hafefe Buttress, graduated from The Ohio State University with a degree in electrical engineering, and was employed by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for 30 years.

He was honored by the Catholic Men's Luncheon Club as Catholic Man of the Year for 2013 for his service to the church and community. He also was 2011 Knight of the Year for Knights of Columbus Council 14342.

His volunteer work included service with Mount Carmel Medical Center, grandchildren.

an extraordinary minister of the Eucharist, delivering Communion to the homebound, and was an altar server for 75 years. He also was a member of the Catholic War Veterans and a participant in the Honor Flight pro-

He was preceded in death by his parents; and brothers, George, Neasurie, Mitchell, and Aneese. Survivors include his wife of 56 years, Mary (Pannella); son, Phil (Patti); daughters, Sue (Gary) Bauchmoyer, Marybeth (Phil) Callaghan, and Anne (Bill) Heinmiller; sisters, Rose Boerger and Betty; and 11

NEW PROGRAM SCHEDULE CATHOLIC RADIO LOCAL AM 820 PROGRAMS WEEKDAYS AT NOON 12:00 PM 12:30 PM Family Sanctuary with t. Gabriel's Trumpet with MONDAY Mary Ann Jepsen and Chip Stalter Peggy Hartshorn Answering the Call with TUESDAY The Seminarians Elizabeth Ficocelli ne Catholic Doctors witl ishop Frederick Campbel WEDNESDAY Drs. Parker and Turek Raising Saints with Katy THURSDAY Msgr. Eugene Morris asures of Our Faith with undations in Faith with FRIDAY Msgr. Frank Lane

TUNE IN ON AM820 OR ONLINE AT STGABRIELRADIO.COM

Send obituaries to: tpuet@colsdioc.org

Heartbeat's Susan Dammann to Speak in Plain City

Catholic Times 17 February 16, 2014

HAPPENINGS

CLASSIFIED

SPAGHETTI DINNER ST. ANTHONY PARISH 50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION SUNDAY, FEB. 23, 2014 12:00 - 6:30 PM

DINE-IN OR CARRYOUT 1300 Urban Drive ~ Columbus, Ohio stanthonykofc14093@gmail.com

FEBRUARY

13. THURSDAY

Theology on Tap Meeting

7 to 9 p.m., El Vaguero Restaurant, 3230 Olentangy River Road, Columbus. Monthly meeting of Theology on Tap social group for Catholics 21 and older, with Ohio Dominican University instructor Deb Sabo speaking on the changing role of women in the church from the New Tes-614-390-8653 tament to today.

Josephinum Lecture on Religious Liberty

7 p.m., Pontifical College Josephinum, 7625 N. High St., Columbus. Lecture on "Religious Liberty and the Human Good" with Dr. Robert George, professor of jurisprudence and director of the James Madison program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University.

'Catholicism 101' Program at Columbus St. Patrick

7:30 p.m., St. Patrick Church, 280 N. Grant Ave., Columbus. Study of Dr. Scott Hahn's "Catholicism 101" series presented by seminarians Brian Becker and Bradley Nursey. Part 2: "Mary, Holy Mother." 614-224-9522

All fund-raising events (festivals, bazaars, spaghetti dinners, fish fries, bake sales, pizza/sub sales, candy sales, etc.) will be placed in the "Fund-Raising Guide." An entry into the Guide will be $18.50 for the first six lines, and $2.65 for each additional line. For more information, call David Garick at 614-224-5195.

'Happenings' submissions

Notices for items of Catholic interest must be received at least 12 days before expected publication date. We will print them as space permits. Items not received before this deadline may not be published. Listings cannot be taken by phone. Mail to: The Catholic Times Happenings, 197 East Gay St., Columbus, OH 43215 Fax to: 614-241-2518

E-mail as text to tpuet@colsdioc.org

Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help at Holy Cross

7:30 p.m., Holy Cross Church, 204 S. 5th St., Columbus. Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help with Father Ramon Owera, CFIC. 614-531-3682

14-16. FRIDAY-SUNDAY

Dominican Sisters 'Come and See' Weekend

Dominican Sisters of Peace Motherhouse. 2320 Airport Drive. Columbus. "Come and See" vocations weekend for single Catholic women ages 18 to 45. 614-216-7688

15, SATURDAY

Life and Mercy Mass in Plain City

9 a.m. Mass, St. Joseph Church, 140 West Ave., Plain City. Saturday Life and Mercy Mass, followed by rosary and confession. 614-565-8654

Cum Christo Day of Reflection at de Porres Center

9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Martin de Porres Center, 2330 Airport Drive. Columbus. Day of reflection sponsored by Columbus Cum Christo movement, Speakers: the Rev. Scott Marier and Deacon Joe Mever.

Labyrinth Workshops at Shepherd's Corner

Shepherd's Corner Ecology Center, 987 N. Waggoner Road, Blacklick. Workshops with Dale Sparlin of Mindful Labvrinths on "The Power and Wisdom of Finger Labyrinths" from 1 to 3:30 p.m. and "Bringing Hibernation to Fulfillment" from 4 to 5:30 p.m. 614-866-4302

16. SUNDAY

Blessing of St. Gerard Majella at Holy Family

After 9 and 11 a.m. Masses, Holy Family Church, 584 W. Broad St., Columbus. Blessing of St. Gerard Majella, patron of expectant mothers, for all women who are pregnant or wish to become pregnant. 614-221-1890

St. Agatha Adult Religious Education

9:40 to 10:40 a.m., St. Agatha Church, 1860 Northam Road. Columbus. "The Reform of the Government of the Church" with Father Edmund Hussey. 614-488-1971

St. Christopher Adult Religious Education

10 to 11:15 a.m., St. Christopher Parish Center, 1420 Grandview Ave., Columbus, "Being Catholic (Christian) and Catholic (Universal) in Central Ohio" with Erin Cordle of the diocesan Office for Social Concerns. 614-488-1971

Open House at St. John Neumann

1 to 3 p.m., St. John Neumann Church, 9633 East State Route 37, Sunbury. Open house for anyone interested in viewing and learning more about the church's expansion, its art, and the symbols of the faith it represents.

740-965-1358

1:30 to 5 p.m., St. Matthew Church, 807 Havens Corners Road, Gahanna. Fellowship and ongoing formation followed by adoration and prayer, Liturgy of the Hours, and initial formation with visitors. Meet downstairs.

Dave Orsborn, OFS 614-282-4676

Organ Concert at Josephinum

St. Padre Pio Secular Franciscans

3 p.m., St. Turibius Chapel, Pontifical College Josephinum, 7625 N. High St., Columbus. Concert on the Wacek family memorial organ with Jason Keefer, the college's director 22, SATURDAY of sacred music. 614-885-5585

Organ Concert at St. Colman of Cloyne

3 p.m., St. Colman of Cloyne Church, 219 S. North St., Washington Court House. Organ concert featuring parish music director Craig Jaynes with soprano Beth Porter and accompanying oboe, cello, and alto saxophone soloists.

Prayer Group Meeting at Christ the King

5 to 7 p.m., Christ the King Church, 2777 E. Livingston Ave., Columbus (enter at daily Mass entrance). Weekly parish prayer group meets for praise, worship, ministry, and teaching. 614-886-8266

6:30 to 7:30 p.m., Undercroft, St. Joseph Cathedral, 212 E. Columbus. American Red Cross bloodmobile visit. Broad St., Columbus. Third of six Bible study programs with Bishop Frederick Campbell for young adults ages 22 Valentine Dinner at Delaware St. Mary to 40. Refreshments provided. 5:30 to 9 p.m., Beitel Commons, St. Mary Church, 82 E 614-221-4640

Spanish Mass at Columbus St. Peter

Bible Study With Bishop Campbell for Young Adults

7 p.m., St. Peter Church, 6899 Smoky Row Road, Colum-706-761-4054 bus. Mass in Spanish.

Marian Movement for Priests Cenacle

7 p.m., St. Patrick Church, 280 N. Grant Ave., Columbus. Mass for Catholic family life. Homily: "The Second Joyful Mystery: The Visitation." 614-235-7435 23, SUNDAY

Scott Hahn 'Salvation History' Bible Study

7 p.m., 1112 Firth Ave., Worthington. Second session of seven-week Bible study using Dr. Scott Hahn's Salvationhistory.com. with teachers Thom and Lorna Lisk.

18. TUESDAY

Rosary for Life at St. Joan of Arc

Following 6:15 p.m. Mass, St. Joan of Arc Church, 10700 Liberty Road, Powell. Recital of Rosary for Life, sponsored by church's respect life committee.

'Landings' Program at Newman Center

Plain City Evening Aglow fellowship.

7:30 p.m., St. Raymond Room, St. Mark Center, 324

Gay St., Lancaster. Light of Life Prayer Group meeting.

Open House, Information Night at Holy Spirit School

9 to 11 a.m., Holy Spirit School, 4382 Duchene Lane, Columbus. Open house for parents of prospective students, followed at 7 p.m. by information night. 614-861-0475

7 p.m. Friday and Sunday, 2 p.m. Saturday, Bishop Ready

High School, 707 Salisbury Road, Columbus. School

drama department presents Mary Chase's comedy

"Harvey" about a man and his invisible six-foot rabbit

7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.. Voinovich Building. State Fairgrounds, Columbus. Seventh annual Columbus

Catholic Women's Conference, with talks by Sister

Miriam James. SOLT. Kimberly Hahn, and Rebecca Dussault.

Prayer Group Meeting at St. Mark

20. THURSDAY

21-23. FRIDAY-SUNDAY

Bishop Ready Presents 'Harvey'

Columbus Catholic Women's Conference

Praise Mass at Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal 7 p.m., St. Thomas More Newman Center, 64 W. Lane 11 a.m., Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal Church, 5225 Ave., Columbus, First session of eight-week "Landings" Refugee Road, Columbus. Praise Mass with upbeat conprogram welcoming inactive and returning Catholics. temporary music.

614-878-1187

740-653-4919

614-398-2292

St. Catherine of Bologna Secular Franciscans

Heartbeat Speaker at Plain City St. Joseph 2:30 to 5 p.m., St. Francis of Assisi Church, 386 Buttles 7 p.m., Activity center, St. Joseph Church, 670 W. Ave., Columbus. Rosary, Liturgy of the Hours, followed by Main St., Plain City. Susan Dammann of Heartbeat Intergeneral meeting, ongoing formation, and social. national speaks on her firsthand witness of the reality of 614-276-1953 Elizabeth Bowen, OFS abortion during her hospital employment. Sponsored by

Life and Mercy Mass in Plain City

Red Cross Bloodmobile at Corpus Christi

Pontifical College Josephinum.

St. Agatha Adult Religious Education

St. Christopher Adult Religious Education

confession.

9 a.m. Mass, St. Joseph Church, 140 West Ave., Plain City.

Saturday Life and Mercy Mass, followed by rosary and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Corpus Christi Church, 1111 Stewart Ave.

William St., Delaware. Valentine dinner for engaged and married couples. Speaker: Msgr. Eugene Morris of the

ProMusica, Lancaster Chorale Present Mozart Mass

5:30 p.m., Pontifical College Josephinum, 7625 N. High St.

Columbus. ProMusica Chamber Orchestra and the Lancaster Chorale present Mozart's "Great Mass in C Minor" and Giya Kancheli's "Midday Prayers." 614-464-0066

9:40 to 10:40 a.m., St. Agatha Church, 1860 Northam

Road, Columbus. "The Vatican Questionnaire: Consulting the People in the Pews" with Father Edmund Hussey.

10 to 11:15 a.m., St. Christopher Parish Center, 1420

Grandview Ave., Columbus. "When I Was in Prison,

I Visited You" with Rose Hamilton, Catholic contract chaplain at state Rehabilitation and Correction Department's Franklin Medical Center.

614-565-8654

1-800-733-2767

740-362-1542

614-488-1971

614-861-1242

Fundraiser for Appalachian Project

3:30 to 4:45 p.m., St. Catharine Church, 500 S. Gould Road, Columbus. Fundraiser for Appalachian project of St. Catharine and Christ the King churches. Food, fellowship, videos, raffle.

Prayer Group Meeting at Christ the King

5 to 7 p.m., Christ the King Church, 2777 E. Livingston Ave., Columbus (enter at daily Mass entrance). Weekly parish prayer group meets for praise, worship, ministry, 614-886-8266 and teaching.

Spanish Mass at Columbus St. Peter

7 p.m., St. Peter Church, 6899 Smoky Row Road, Columbus. Mass in Spanish. 706-761-4054 ProMusica, Lancaster Chorale Present Mozart Mass

7 p.m., Southern Theater, 21 E. Main St., Columbus. ProMusica Chamber Orchestra and the Lancaster Chorale present Mozart's "Great Mass in C Minor" and Giya Kancheli's "Midday Prayers." 614-464-0066

614-276-5263 24, MONDAY

Bethesda Post-Abortion Healing Ministry

6:30 p.m., support group meeting, 2744 Dover Road, Columbus (Christ the King convent, first building west of the church). 614-718-0277. 614-309-2651. 614-309-0157 Our Lady of Peace Men's Bible Study

7 p.m., Our Lady of Peace Church, 20 E. Dominion Blvd.

Columbus. Bible study of Sunday Scripture readings. 614-459-2766

18 Catholic Times February 16, 2014 February 16, 2014 Catholic Times 19

CONCERT

Danzmayr to Conduct ProMusica's Performances of MOZART'S "GREAT MASS"

Music director David Danzmayr will conduct the ProMusica Chamber Orchestra for a special presentation of Mozart's Great Mass in C Minor and contemporary composer Giva Kancheli's Midday Prayers on two evenings in February.

Acclaimed soprano Martha Guth will perform as solo vocalist in both pieces. În addition, the Great Mass will feature the Lancaster Chorale, Ohio's only 32-voice professional choir, with soprano Peggy Kriha Dye, tenor Beniamin Bunsold, and baritone Robert Kerr as soloists.

The performances will take place at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 22 at the Pontifical College Josephinium, 7625 N. high St., Columbus, and 7 p.m. Sun-21 E. Main St., Columbus.

rate again with the Lancaster Chorale for Mozart's Great Mass, which, although it's not performed nearly as day, Feb. 23 at the Southern Theater, frequently as his Requiem, is considered one of Mozart's most ambitious "The orchestra is excited to collabo- choral masterpieces," said ProMusica executive director Janet Chen. "We are also very pleased to welcome the Lancaster Chorale and the soloists."

For its February program, ProMusica has chosen to highlight artists with Ohio roots. The Lancaster Chorale is based in central Ohio, and all of the soloists have ties to the area. The goal is to display the rich talent that has roots in central Ohio.

Ohio-educated, with an undergraduate reasons why the work may not have degree from the Oberlin Conservatory been completed. Even in its incomof Music and a master of music degree plete state, it rivals Mozart's great from the Cincinnati College-Conser- compositions. vatory of Music.

Critically acclaimed international soprano and Opera Columbus general formed more than 30 roles with opera companies and orchestras worldwide. After attending The Juilliard School, she became an Adler Fellow with the San Francisco Opera Beniamin Bunsold has been a featured soloist in such works as Handel's Messiah, Haydn's Creation and Lord Nelson Mass, Schubert's Mass in E flat Minor, Vivaldi's Gloria, Orff's Carmina Burana, and Mozart's Requiem.

Canal Winchester resident Robert Kerr is honored to be making a second appearance with ProMusica. Kerr has been a finalist in the Chester Ludgin international Verdi baritone competi-

The program opens with Kancheli's Midday Prayers. The New York Times said "Kancheli makes something theatrically religious of his Midday Prayers. The underlying mood is prayerful monotony, but solo clarinet lines give color and punctuation." Georgian-born Giva Kancheli composed the piece in 1991 as part of a series (consisting of morning, midday, evening, and night prayers) gathered into a cycle -- though not necessarily intended to be performed together -called Life Without Christmas.

In contrast to Kancheli's work, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Great Mass in C Minor was composed in 1782 and 1783 in Vienna. The large-scale work, set for two soprano soloists, a tenor and a bass, double chorus, and large orchestra remained unfinished. There has been much speculation Canadian soprano Martha Guth is among musicologists regarding the

The Lancaster Chorale joins the orchestra for the Great Mass. It has performed with ProMusica on several manager Peggy Kriha Dye has per- occasions, including on its presentation of Bernstein's Mass, and is wellknown for its musical integrity and remarkable blend. Formed in 1985 as a community choir and becoming professional in 1989, its "pure sound" has attracted national attention.

> With a reputation for superb ensemble singing, the chorale has received funding through grants from the Don Wendel Family Fund of the Fairfield County Foundation, Ohio Arts Council, Arts Midwest, Presser Foundation, and SBC Ameritech.

CONCERT SERIES

CUNCERTS IN A COUNTRY CHURCH

Washington Court House St. Colman of Cloyne Church, 219 S. North St., will present another in its series of "Concerts in a Country Church" at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 16.

Craig Jaynes, the church's music director and organist, will be joined by soloists from Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, and Cedarville in performing a program which will cover a wide range of eras and styles, from the time of Bach to the present day..

Soloists will be Julie Collins, oboe; Ethan Wintrow, cello; Clark Becker, alto saxophone; and Beth Porter, soprano. Jaynes will be recalling his 52 years as a church musician with his solo selections, and the soloists will be performing musical favorites of their own, which also will demonstrate the effectiveness of the church's new organ as an accompying instrument.

Composers represented will include J. S. Bach, C.P.E. Bach, Barber, Dupre, Gounod, Handel, Hovhaness, Piazzolla, Saint-Saens, and Shearing.

The requested donation for this program is $10 per person ($5 for senior citizens and students) at the door.

RECOVERY CONTINUES IN PHILIPPINES THREE MONTHS AFTER TYPHOON HAIYAN

Residents of Tacloban, the Philippines, rummage through debris left by November's Typhoon Haiyan. According to the Philippine government, more than 500,000 homes were destroyed by the powerful typhoon. CNS photos/Tyler Orsburn

> Children's toys and other items are seen on the grave of a young Typhoon Haiyan victim in Palo, the Philippines, on Feb. 7. That day, just across the street from this improvised cemetery, the remains of 16-year-old John Steve Cobacha were discovered.

Louisville. Ky., Archbishop Joseph E. Kurtz, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (left), and Oklahoma City Archbishop Paul S. Coakley, chairman of Catholic Relief Services, tour a community in Tanauan, the Philippines, that was hit by Typhoon Haiyan in November.

20 Catholic Times February 16, 2014

MARCH FOR LIFE REFLECTION

By Emily Maurer

Senior, Columbus Bishop Watterson High School

I SIGNED UP TO GO TO THE MARCH FOR LIFE
BECAUSE I WANTED
A CHANCE TO STAND UP FOR WHAT I BELIEVED IN

Pictured: Emily Maurer (left) and Marisa Phelps; (below) Caroline Canute (left), Madison Kerscher, Maria Simmonds, Kalea Thompson, AJ Kilibarda, Joel Silleck, and Kyle Simmond. Photos/Watterson HS

RALLY AND CONCERT

It's hard to pick just one thing I loved about the trip. At the "Life Is Very Good" rally in Fairfax, Va., the night before the march, there was a lot that touched me about the whole night. I loved how they offered Reconciliation the entire night. The line was so long it just made me stop and think about the power of penance.

The two speakers we listened to, Father Agustino Torres, CFR, and Mary Bielski, were so powerful as they spoke about the meaning of life. One thing that really stuck out was their reminder that respect for life is for more than just for the unborn. Every person – young, old, or unborn – is worthy of respect.

After hearing that, I realized that sometimes, we all slip away from this and tend to forget about all of the different walks of life. I decided that I would try to adopt that motto into my life and try to remind myself of what they said every day.

We also had the opportunity to see Matt Maher perform. His concert was so much fun and proved to me that being Catholic can be fun and that it is also for my generation. After getting back from D.C., I cannot stop listening to his music. After Matt sang, we had Adoration. As they were walking in with the Blessed Sacrament and as everyone was on their feet singing, I got chills and it brought me to tears.

It's hard to explain, but at that moment and all throughout Adoration, I could really tell that Jesus was there with us, so I decided that I would try to go to Adoration at least once a week for a little bit.

MORNING MASS

On the day of the march, we had Mass and a morning rally. It was cool to see the amount of priests, deacons, bishops, and seminarians that were there. The presiding bishop (Biashop Paul Loverde of Arlington, Va.) said he tries to lead by example, and he told us he was walking in the march with us. That surprised me, because he was not exactly young.

I liked how there were nuns and seminarians there who looked only a few years older than me. Seeing how young they were made me think that I need to listen for God's call in my life, too.

There were so many people at the march it was easy to get lost. I had to walk arm-in-arm with my friends so we would stay together. When you are walking in the march, you don't realize how many people are actually there. You just see the people around you. But when you turn around or when there is a hill, you can see the amount of people ahead and behind you. It takes your breath away and gives you goose bumps.

I loved how many people were there to stand up for what they believe in. It was amazing to meet people from all over America who were there to practice their faith. I had never really realized how powerful being Catholic can be. I felt so empowered to be in a place where practicing your faith was the norm.

Being surrounded by people from all over who believe in the same things I do made me feel like I was exactly where I was supposed to be. This trip was an extremely powerful experience, and I hope to continue to have the opportunities to practice my faith and to stand up for what I believe in.

